ADD TO PLAN

South Beach is a mecca for a global array of tourists looking for a party, the fashion-forward looking for their next muse and foodies looking for a culinary adventure like no other. Between oceanfront views and poolside cabanas, Miami has restaurants that fulfill your people-watching needs, as well as your stomach's needs and wants. With so many people coming from so many different places, the food has to keep up with the flow of tastes. Eclectic styles, cuisines, and unique decorations spill onto South Beach's lunch scene, which go hand in hand with daily lunch specials that keep you coming back. Here are a few places to check out if you find yourself in need of refreshing cocktails and dishes during lunchtime.

Orange Blossom's easy, breezy style

Fresh cocktails, fresh ingredients, and a take on food that satisfies every one of your taste buds, Orange Blossom in South Beach is like a cool breeze on a hot South Florida day. Chef Nelson Maldonado creates each dish with gentle care to make sure each guest savors a spoon, or fork, full of Florida's seasonal produce. Ideal starters include the Asparagus Salad, Tuna Tartare, and any of the delectable flatbread choices. Entrees include fresh salads like the Tuna Nicoise, Thai Salad, and Chicken Greek Salad.

In addition to its sandwiches, such as the NYC Breakfast Sandwich and the Charles St. Burger, the cold pressed juices and specialty craft cocktails are the perfect companions to each dish. Open: Every day from 11am - 3pm.
